

Storage Pods Are Moving Up

Storage pods have been around for a number of years but recently the common population has started using them more. With life in America as busy as it is storage pods have become more popular because of the convenience. What is a storage pod you say? Several different companies offer the pods however the idea is still the same for all of them. When you order a pod the company delivers it to your doorstep. You have an extended amount of time to pack up everything you would like, in most cases up to 30 days. Following the loading you have a couple of options you can either have the pod stored at their storage space or you can have it dropped off directly in front of your new house.

The storage pods are cheaper as well as more convenient than a conventional moving truck as you do not have to do it in only a few days. To be able to allow the customers this convenience they charge only a flat rate around $200 unlike moving companies that charge you per day. Also when choosing to drop it off at your new house they don not charge too much extra. The actual price ranges from $500 to $2500 depending on how many storage pods you need and if you are doing any additional storage with them. Pods are not used just for people that are looking to move. Pods have several uses besides just moving. Several people use pods while remodeling their houses on the inside and out as well as just for temporary storage for whatever project they might be doing. For the best rate try calling around to different companies that offer the pods you can usually find one that is cheaper then most or compare the prices to them and they will sometimes offer you a cheaper price then their competitors.

Several moving companies do not take extra care of your personal stuff as you would like. This causes for you to sometimes find your glass and other fragile stuff to end up broken. Unfortunately most of the moving companies will not reimburse you and just say it was because of the way it was packed. So by using storage pods you have the piece of mind knowing that your fragile items will be handled with care since you are the one moving them. By using a storage pod it also makes it easier on you and your items as they are placed directly on the ground. Trying a pod may turn out to be a great choice and you may use it several times in the future. Related Info Portable storage .
