

Why You Should Submit Your Blog

The idea of blogging today is very popular. A lot of people are charging into it with no idea of what they should really be doing. If you do not really care about being found by others then not knowing what you are doing will pose no problem. However most people are getting into blogging because they want to make money through Google adsense. If you are concerned about your blog being found by the search engines then you will need to submit your blog to the major search engines and blog directories.

You can submit your blog to paid blog directories if you can afford it. Paid blog directories are trusted by search engines like google and yahoo. Paid sites require that blogs meet certain criteria before they allow them on their paid sites. If you submit your blog to a paid blog directory you will be in there with the best blogs on the internet.

Submit your blog to the popular search engines like google, Yahoo and MSN as well. If you want it found by others you will definitely need to submit your blog to the major search engines. There are millions of blogs on the internet so you will be competing for traffic. You should know which directories to submit your blog to so that it is categorized correctly. When you submit your blog to the blog directory it is very similar to submitting a website. There are few differences however. When you submit your blog the right way it will get indexed quicker.

You should make sure you have a sitemap done before you submit your blog. This is especially important when you submit your blog to google. And we all know how important google is when it comes to getting traffic. Once indexed, you should check the sitemap regularly and keep it updated for google. You can install a sitemap plugin if you have a Wordpress blog. This way the plugin will update the sitemap automatically. If do not have a wordpress blog you can use google tools and make your own sitemap.

When you want to submit your blog to the major blog directories you can use a site like Feed Shot to do it. You will need an account to submit your blog to google and yahoo. MSN requires certain things that yahoo and google do not require when you submit your blog to them. You can find articles online that will show you step by step how to submit your blog to the blog directories and individual search engines.

About the Author

For more information on top blogs, visit Blogskinny.com.

Source: <http://livearticlez.com>